Fall, At Last!

Welcome back! We are glad to have you with us for our fall edition.

We would like to invite you to extend a warm welcome to ECRA's newest coordinator in training, Finn Chandler Currie. Finn was born July 13 weighing in at 8lbs 14oz! Congratulations to proud parents Tim and Amanda Currie.

As we all know, it is getting that time of year again. Are you ready for your flu vaccine? ECRA is ready for you! Current research participants will not be charged for flu vaccinations. Vaccines are scheduled to arrive on site soon but we do not begin vaccinations until mid October to ensure you are covered for the entire flu season. Injections can be given during clinic visits or scheduled.

As we enter flu season, please remember hand washing basics.

Germs are microscopic and can live on surfaces such as door knobs, shopping cart handles and pens, for 2-8 hours. Do not sneeze or cough into your hands. Use a tissue, throw it away immediately and wash your hands or use hand sanitizer.

If you do not have a tissue, cough or sneeze into your arm.

Happy Halloween and Happy Thanksgiving!

Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth with your hands.

Studies show that people can remain contagious from one day before they appear sick to 24 hours after the fever is broken.

Do not go to school or work if you are sick, this will reduce the chances of the virus spreading.

Get vaccinated!

Have a happy and healthy fall.

FDA Will Regulate E-Cigarettes as Tobacco

5/2011-The FDA will regulate electronic cigarettes the same way it regulates other tobacco products.

Representatives for the FDA ruled that e-cigarettes and other products made or derived from tobacco can be regulated as "tobacco products".

The controversy began when an Arizona based company sued the FDA after the agency ruled it's products were "unapproved drug/device combination products" and refused to allow the company to sell them in the United States.

A new proposal by the FDA would include "other categories of tobacco products that meet the definition of "tobacco products, which would include electronic cigarettes.

Always carry a quick relief inhaler!

Fall Asthma Triggers-How to Avoid Them

Tips from the American Lung Association for making fall activities more asthma friendly.

Stay inside if the pollen count is high between 10AM-3PM.

Make sure you have a quick relief inhaler on hayrides, haunted houses and trick-or-treating.

Leaves in fall are drier and mold spores buried in leaf piles can be stirred when raking or playing in leaves. Wash clothes quickly, wear long sleeves and pants to keep mold off of skin.

When raking leaves, wear a mask to avoid breathing mold spores. Wear gloves.

Don't burn leaves. This can irritate the eyes, nose, throat and lungs. The tiny particles can cause respiratory infections.

When camping out, make sure you have a quick relief inhaler and use it at the first sign of worsening asthma.

Temperature changes can be an asthma trigger. If our Florida weather takes a turn for the worse, wrap a scarf around your mouth and nose to warm the air you breathe.

The biggest tips to remember are:

1. Know your triggers
2. Keep a quick relief inhaler handy at all times
3. Seek treatment at the first symptoms of infection

"Devastating" Cost of COPD

A new survey reports patients who suffer from COPD or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease lose around $1800 of their income each year due to their condition.

The study reports that nearly one in five 45-67 year olds with COPD are forced to retire prematurely. This increases their healthcare costs which in return reduces their personal tax and pension contributions.

The survey, called COPD Uncovered, involved 2,426 participants from six countries. Inclusion criteria: Physician based COPD diagnosis, greater than 10 pack year history of smoking and use of medications for the condition.

Suggestions for prevention of this loss included prevention based work-based programs, such as smoking cessation classes.

COPD is thought to affect 210 million people worldwide. It is estimated that only half of those have been diagnosed.

COPD and Depression

Numerous studies over the years have shown that patients with COPD tend to be more prone to becoming clinically depressed than individuals with other conditions.

In a recent study it was noted that an increased risk for depression is not the result of having a chronic disease but is specific for COPD.

COPD is a condition that makes it more difficult to breathe. It can cause coughing fits which lead to more mucus, wheezing and chest tightness. Excessive smoking is the main cause of COPD.

Depression is a condition in which patients display dejection and despondency that result in a feeling of inadequacy and hopelessness.

There are treatment options for depression and reduced mood. By treating these issues patients often have a decrease in dyspnea, or shortness of breath. This is the number one complaint of COPD patients.

COPD patients, take a moment to think about this. You are not alone.
